

The new Rosenthal collection "Cappello" may disguise itself as a bowler hat, but at second glance it presents itself as a cup and saucer for an extraordinary coffee enjoyment.

Rosenthal Cappello/Design: Damian O'Sullivan

With the sympathetic collection "Cappello" (Italian: hat) Rosenthal starts a charm offensive at the laid table. The two-piece cup initially disguises itself as bowler hat in Charlie-Chaplin style and then turns out to be a cup with a saucer, which not only looks good thanks to the combination of matt and shiny porcelain, but which is also a pleasure to hold in your hand. In addition to the classic version made of black porcelain, "Cappello" is also available in puristic white. A black and white gift packaging brings the winking charm of the hat cup designed by Damian O'Sullivan to the point.

Damian O'Sullivan was born in England in 1969 of Franco-Irish parents. He studied design at the Royal College of Art in London and upon completing his Masters, started designing for Hermès. Damian went independent in 1999, working for the world's most renowned fashion houses and design companies such as Louis Vuitton, Hermès and Royal Delft. In 2015 he started Studio O'Sullivan in Brussels.

From Porcelain Pioneer to International Design Company

Founded in 1879, Rosenthal reflects on its longstanding company history. The story of Rosenthal is the story of a father and son – founder Philipp Rosenthal Senior and the visionary entrepreneur Philip Rosenthal Junior. The former laid the foundation for modern porcelain production, while the latter built Rosenthal into a renowned international brand. His credo: a passion for everyday luxury and a heartfelt commitment to design. For well over a century, established designers, artists, and trendy newcomers have crafted elegant, high-quality tableware collections and exclusive pieces that enhance living spaces. Rosenthal's clientele includes not only households worldwide but also 800 international restaurants and hotels. Rosenthal is already on the path of green transformation and established the "Corporate Sustainability" unit in 2022. The company actively addresses sustainability in environmental and energy management and social responsibility. The Rosenthal portfolio features the Rosenthal, Hutschenreuther, and Thomas brands, along with collaborations such as Rosenthal meets Versace and Swarovski x Rosenthal. Since July 2009, Rosenthal has been part of the Italian Arcturus Group.
